Hondrond, July 28RD, 1878.

Our correspondent "Gardener" calls at tention to a subject of considerable importance. Now that efforts are being made on a large scale to plant this island with trees, precautions should at the same time be taken to prevent the Government scheme of afforestation being rendered meffectual by the destructive predilections of a certain class of the Chinese population. If we are to have woods and forests the young trees must be watched and protected. It is not so very long since that a boat-load of people from the opposite mainland were caught in the act of cutting down trees in Hongkong for firewood. The hill sides in the vicinity of their own two knots per hour. Whilst in Mantong Bay dwellings had no doubt been rendered perfeetly bare, and they had come across the water to forage for firewood in this Colony. It is not likely that the above is a solitary instance of a foreign invasion of our seanty facilities for shipping about 200 tons of greatest foes to growing trees and shrubs are to cut the long grass on the hill slopes to sell or use as fodder for cattle. Unfortunately they make this permission the cover for a serious mid upon young and growing trees. to say nothing of a wholesale destruction of ferns. They do not venture to take large branches. Their plan is to break off the lower branches of the fir trees and leave them ou the ground until they are withered and drie ! when they can safely remove them as dead years, and the trees grow up shapeless in consequence. There is also another peril to which young trees are exposed. The young leaves and shoots, and thus the progress of many promising trees is arrested. The goatherds should be forbidden to take their flocks on the planted portions of the hills until the trees have attained a considerable size. The work of tree-planting will a great deal of preparatory work has he understands it as a recognition of Sir Albert's saw Boarke and Ranb and others. I had nothing hardt was on the goop. We are glad to hear, through "Philo. Coreanus," that Monseigneur Ridge has escaped with his life from Corea. Wong Abing, master of the Kung Wo Hing stone junk, was brought up, on remand obarged with leaving the harbonr of Shau-ki Wan without a clearance on the 19th instant. The Hon. C. May said-The Ordinance was made to carry, on honest trades and it must be carried out. If A person pets up his anchor without a clearance, then he is breaking that part of the law which says that the junk shall be forfeited and the master be imprisoned for seven days. The Magistrates inflict that punishment upon you; but they would recommend to H. E. the Governor that a fine of $5 be inflicted in lieu of the boat baing forfoited. Apthe papers had to go to Government House the prisoner wasremanded and admitted to bail in $10.

Chung Ahing, master of the Chi Hing Junk was charged with leaving Shau'Ki Wan without a clearance on the 17th June. Joaquin Jose Collaco said On Saturday after. noon at three o'clock, I boarded the prisoner's junic and he showed me an anohorage pass helanging to Shan Ki Won. I asked him why h did not obtain a clearance from Shau Ki Wan and he said he did not know.

The prisoner said when he left Shan Ki Wan without a clearance. He did not go on shorn to try and obtain a clearance. He traded between San Mee, a place near Swatow, and Honokone with pigs and snoar. He had been to San Mee with coke from this nort and upon his return nut_into_Shan_Ki_Won_through_distress_of woodher. He had never been to this port before. The late master, of the innk has given the business up to the prisoner, The prisoner is master of the junk and left Shan-ki Wan at two o'clock in the afternoon of the 16th. The prisoner has been master of the junk for the last eight months.

The Hon. C. May told the prisoner that his nies for deviating from his vovage was through stress of weather and that was reasonable cames for doing so. He should however, if he considered it necessary to remain at Shan-ki Wan, have obtained a clearance before lifting his anchor. The magistrates would dismiss the charge, but if he was ever brought before them again the fullest penalty would be inflicted.

Henry Campbell, late a seamen on the British bark Eleanor, was charged with wilfully remaining behind from his ship on the 17th inst. His Worship said that he had received a letter from Captain Jobson, of the Eleanor, stating that the prisoner, who was sent on board under an escort from the Shipping Master, had deserted from the ship.

The prisoner had nothing to say, His Worship sentenced the prisoner to one month's imprisonment with hard labour

the N. C. Daily News by Mr. W. H. Tapp, H.M.'s.

Władivostock, 21st June, 1878. DEAR STR.—Having rend in one of the China papers a short extract from the log of the schooner Nellie, it might interest you to hear some further particulars relative to that unfortunate affair. The Nellie arrived here from Chefoo in October, 1875. Brown and Thompson on their arrival came to me and said that they had built the schooner in the hope that I would fit them out with provisions and goods, as they had heard that a good thing was to be made on Chantar island. I told them that it was much too late for such a small craft to go North, but that if they would remain over the winter I would find them some employment and give them what they required the following year. This they agreed to, and being both handy men, they had good employment as sail-makers in the Government Yard here. Early in August, 1876, I fitted them out for the voyage to Chantar, sending them two Chinese who said they understood trapping. The object of the voyage, was to trade along the coast for sables, and to trap them on the island during the winter, for which purpose advised them to take a few natives from the mainland, either Toongoose or Giliaks. This they appear not to have done. They took but little fresh provisions with them, as they were told that deer were very plentiful on the island, I think it only right H.B.M.'s Consul should make some inquiries as to what has become of the proceeds of the schooner and cargo, which I am informed have been sold by the Russian authorities. I know for certain that my accounts, &c., were found with the schooner's papers, but no notification was given to me relative to the sale of the best and cargo, neither was I informed of the disastrous ending of the affair.-I am, dear Sir, your obedient servant. But little is known of what actually happened. The Achinese appear to have suddenly descended from their hill fastnesses in very large numbers and to have advanced into dangerous proximity to the Kraton and other Dutch stations on the coast, Severe fighting, it is said, took place, but the Drich troops held their own, and large reinforcements. Hongkong and Whampos Dock. Company's orders entrusted to us will receive prompt attennurried in hot haste from Java, have now arrived. We learn, through the courtesy of the Consul | General for the Netherlands, that a telegram has been received to the effect that the excitement which lately prevailed has subsided, and, though attacks by the Achinese were anticipated, nothing of a formidable nature has occurred, and the natives have retired to their fastnesses. It was fairly demonstrated in the Botanical Gardens on Friday afternoon, that a python, however harmless looking, may not he worried with impunity, It appears Mr. Swensen, a Swede, who has late y got employment in the Gardens as a head gardener under Mr. Murton, entered the cage of the python, and, while showing to a friend who was with him the easy control which he could exercise over the lethargic animal. commenced to kick it on the bead, a treatment which the animal bore for some time with considerable equanimity; but as the annoyance became more formidable the python roused itself and quickly coiled itself round the gardener's body, and had well-nigh succeeded in squeezing the life out of him before assistance arrived in the shape of Private John Adolphus of H. M. 28th Regiment, who very pluckily seized the snake, and, by sheer strength, forced him to let go. The "poor native" seems to enjoy an intelligent acquaintance with the means of obtaining money for his needs, regardless of any strict sense of honesty equally with his London prototype. A Malay syce demonstrated this fact a few days ago. Feeling that money was necessary, he waited upon a friendly diamond merchant—a countryman—who is in the habit of obliging his friends, when security is offered, and, upon depositing two large boxes, of which he had lost the keys, and one of which took ten men to lift, said to contain money and other valuables, he obtained a loan of $125 from his trusting friend, who was perfectly estisfied of the bona fides of the transaction, the little episode of the losing of the keys having been perfectly explained away. The loan would, it was promised be repaid on the morrow, but as days passed away and the faithless syce did not put in an appearance, the diamond merchant grew anxious and applied to the police for advice. The hoxes, at the cost of much trouble, were removed to the police station, and when foroibly opened were found to contain not gold or jewels-but sand. That syon to have been perpetrated on the 9th instant. It appears a Chinese wedding was being celebrated in the house in China street on that day, and the boy who was murdered was the nephew of bride, and was brought from Bangkok by his mother to be present at the marriage. About 6 p.m., whon those assembled sat down to dinner, the boy was missing, and a diligent search was made for him throughout the house and its violnity, but in vain. The police were communicated with, and a Chinese boy who was present at the wedding having informed them that he had last seem the missing boy in the company of a Malay, named Ibrahim, the latter was at once arrested, and though he Dry Thermometer ..... 83.0 88.0 88.0 88.0 89.0 81.0 79.9 74.6 professed total ignorance of the matter, upon being searched, $50 in notes were found concealed upon his person, for the possession of which he weather... could not satisfactorily account, and he was con. sequently detained in custody on suspicion. ## A PRIMITIVE PROPLE.

The Mescow correspondent of the Cologne Gazette writes :- From Samaroand we receive some particulars relative to the territory of Kavategin, which belonged formerly to Kokhand, bus has been ceded by Russia to Bokhara. Karategin, with the smaller territories of Dorwa. Wachia and Shugnau, as well as the greater part of Kogistar, adjoin immediately the plateau of Pamir, the highest in the world. Karategin which is completely isolated in winter, and has intercourse only during summer with the neighboaring territories; has never yet been approached. The following letter has been kindly handed to by a European. The habits and customs of the Registrar of Shipping (to whom it was addressed), primitive state. They have no conception of measure or weight no fairs booths, cars anserais. or any institutions of public life. Theft is unknown among them. They carry on the breeding of cattle, have little agriculture, and all is, so to FANOY and BLACK WINDSOR SCARVES, speak, common property. If provisions are want. ing in one family, it is a matter of course that their neighbours help them.
